

Does Thailand have a plan for green energy?

Thailand's National Energy Plan (NEP) 2023 is a significant part of its move towards green and clean energy. The plan aims to achieve carbon neutrality between 2065 and 2070 with aggressive measures. Thailand offers promising market opportunities for U.S. suppliers and exporters of oil and gas,electrical power systems,and energy equipment.

Why is Thailand launching a new energy storage system?

Mr. Kittikorn Lohsunthorn, Chairman of the Energy Commission, House of Parliaments, said that the signing ceremony would strengthen and drive the development of energy storage system technology in Thailand towards global energy and industry transformations, particularly in the modern automotive industry.

How much money can a smart grid save in Thailand?

This renewable deployment could save over $9 billion per year,according to the International Renewable Energy Agency (IREA) and the Ministry of Energy. With regard to Thailand's transition into a low-carbon economy,the implementation of smart energy,particularly smart grids,is a national policy priority for the Ministry of Energy.

What technologies is Thailand exploring for energy storage?

Thailand is currently carrying out pilot projects for the development of an advanced grid system to better manage grid volatility. The private sector is also pursuing opportunities to develop projects with battery energy storage system (BESS) technologies.

Does Thailand need a battery energy storage system?

Thailand may lackthe Battery Energy Storage Systems (BESS) necessary to navigate supply and demand challenges. The 2024 PDP draft included 10,000 MW of BESS,but this may see the country struggle to fulfil carbon neutrality and Net Zero commitments over the coming decades.
